World's Strongest Fortifications Cannot Withstand the Shock

Situation of the Allies Unchanged
Although Slight Gains Reported

(By International News Service.)
PARIS, Oct. 1.—The allies have made progress on both right and left wings, but the situation on the whole has undergone no change, according to an official announcement this afternoon. "There is no modification of the situation as a whole," says the statement. "We progressed, however, on the left north or Somme and on the right in the southern part of the Woëvre region."
The statement shows the turning movement north of Somme for the purpose of cutting the German line of communications and forcing withdrawal of the entire right wing of the German army has met no check. Advance of the allies on the right wing, too, if continued, is a menace to the western end of the German army. If the French should succeed in driving the Germans back so their line through Luxembourg is threatened, the right wing of the Germans as well as the center would have to retreat.

S. H. BRADY RESIGNS
J. W. CHANDLER
TAKES HIS PLACECHANGES FOLLOWING A RESIG-NATION SENT IN SIXTY DAYS AGO.

S. H. Brady, general manager of the West End Consolidated Mining company, and also manager of the Halfax, retired this morning from the services of these companies and is succeeded by John W. Chandler, who entered upon his new duties today.

The change was brought about by the resignation of Mr. Brady written July 29 and addressed to C. B. Zabriskie, who had engaged Mr. Brady. The matter was left in abeyance until a recent meeting of the directors when the resignation came up and was accepted.

The retiring manager of the West End and Halfax will be associated with the Thoroldsen syndicate known as the Thoroldsen & Mather Borax company, and the Sterling Borax company, two of the largest concerns in the world. Mr. Brady will remove to Goldfield, where he will establish offices and prepare for a thorough development of the Southwestern Mines properties at Hornsiver, fifteen miles south of Goldfield, in which the Thoroldsens are heavily interested.

Mr. Brady has been engaged operating the largest mines in Tonopah during the last six years and established the West End as a dividend payer after taking it when it was deeply in debt. He raised the debt, built a mill costing $120,000, paid two dividends and leaves a surplus of approximately $200,000 in the treasury. During his stay in Tonopah Mr. Brady has been identified with the Belmont, North Star, Monarch, Pittsburg, West End and Halfax, and in his management has a record for efficiency and economic results that speak well for his executive ability.

John W. Chandler, the new manager of the West End, is one of the best known mining engineers of the district. He came here in 1906 as superintendent of the MacNamara and was the first man to make that property pay from the day he took hold. He was reputed to be a perfect wizard in finding ore and has the record of never raising a stone or sinking a winze without opening ore. His health suffered and he had to retire from the high altitudes for several years and came back to the North Star when that mine was closest to exhaustion and demanded the most per attention to insure development of a fresh producer. The same might be said of the Rescue, where Manager Chandler has been very successful. He is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the West End, as he was one of the engineers employed in the original apportionment and during the Butler-West End suit was retained by the West End as one of their expert engineers.
